PROGRAM

To the participants of the XVII World Congress of the World Association for Dynamic Psychiatry “Multidisciplinary Approach To and Treatment of Mental Disorders: Myth or Reality?”

Dear Friends!

It's a great pleasure for me to have the opportunity to welcome the participants of the XVII World Congress of the World Association for Dynamic Psychiatry in Saint-Petersburg!

This important international scientific event is being held in Russia again. It's not a coincidence that it takes place in Saint Petersburg, well known as a city of research challenges frontiers, advanced technologies and innovations, one of the greatest scientific and educational centers of Russia.

We draw attention to the development of health care services, access of to high quality widely available medical care, advancement of medical professions. Concern for people's well-being is one of the main city government priorities.

The development of psychiatric science in Russia is closely connected with the name of prominent Russian scientist, academician Vladimir Mikhailovich Bekhterev. The first psychoneurological research institute founded in our country more than 100 years ago was named after him. Today it provides high quality training programs for the professionals in the field of mental health, and many of the challenging WHO research projects are carried out here.

The congress participants, the world renowned psychiatrists from many different countries of the world will have the opportunity to have a discussion on the latest developments, current studies and research findings in Psychiatry and Mental Health.

I have no doubts that this forum will be held on the highest professional level and will make a great impact to on further development of medical science and practice.

I wish you all successful and fruitful work, and of course – the most vivid impressions from our beautiful city!

To the participants of the XVII World Congress of the World Association for Dynamic Psychiatry and the All-Russian Scientific Practical Conference "Multidisciplinary Approach in Understanding and Treatment of Mental Disorders: Myth or Reality?"

Dear Colleagues and Friends,

Please allow me to welcome you to Saint Petersburg and to congratulate you on the occasion of the opening of the XVII World Congress of the World Association for Dynamic Psychiatry and the All-Russian Scientific Practical Conference "Multidisciplinary Approach in Understanding and Treatment of Mental Disorders: Myth or Reality?"

The term "psychiatry" appeared over 200 years ago. Since then, psychiatry has formed into a most complicated field of knowledge based on the advancements and developments in fundamental biology and medicine as well as on humanist principles, which are particularly significant for the diagnosis and treatment of mental patients. An immense contribution to the development of psychiatry was made by the Russian scientist Vladimir Mikhailovich Bekhterev, who created the concept of a biopsychosocial understanding of the nature of mental disorders and predetermined the vector of the development of scientific research activities at the institute founded by him. A holistic understanding of the etiopathogenesis and therapy of mental disorders has become the logical development of this scientific school.

I am sure the scientific presentation of the forum participants will be of great interest to the audience. The keynote of the majority of lectures will be a multidisciplinary approach corroborated by an extensive arsenal of innovative methods. This will allow us to broaden our horizons in the study of the fundamental issues of psychiatry. Undoubtedly, quite a few traditional concepts need to be reconsidered today. This applies equally to a more profound understanding of the nature of mental disorders and to the methods for their treatment. Only innovations in tandem with fundamental research will enable further development of psychiatry.

The Congress and the Conference imply a creative interaction between noted scientists and novice researchers united by a common desire to make mental health care as effective as possible. The conclusions and recommendations of your forum should contribute to the preservation of the best traditions and, at the same time, encourage further progress in modern psychiatry.

I wish all of you every creative success and fruitful scientific dialogue.

*Member of the Presidium of the Russian Academy of Sciences
Academician G.A. Sofronov*

Multidisciplinary approach became recently one of the most discussable topics among the mental health scientists. This is quite understandable because of the financial difficulties that to different extent are experiencing all over world and have their impact on the health care system, including mental health care services. The discrepancy between the costs of the every next generation of the medicines and their efficacy is constantly growing. We observe the regular appearance of the new very diverse approaches in the list of health care services. It is really difficult to define how valuable they are not comparing them with the already existing ones, especially when they belong to the different fields and specialties of the mental health care. At the same time national ministries of health care, insurance companies, patients themselves and their relatives make increasing demands and expectations to the quality of the provided mental health care services.

All these mentioned above, brings about the challenge for the elaboration of the integrated therapeutic programs, encompassing the most effective approaches from the different fields of mental health care system. Their efficacy should be proved by the means of the evidence based medicine. It is quite obvious that development of such programs can be successful only as a result of constructive discussion of the representatives of all disciplines of mental health system – psychiatrists-professionals of the in and out-patient and ambulance care units, psychotherapists, clinical psychologists, social workers and nurses.

In the literature one can already easily find the calls for joining this movement. The reports about its successful appliance appear. Nevertheless they are far away from becoming the standard of practical mental health service, where the managed care reigns. The complexity of the establishment of mutual understanding and common language among the participants of multi-professional teams is evident. This causes the doubts in realness of the determined goals and question multidisciplinary approach is a coming true reality or however is a myth?

I hope that this congress will give the opportunity to its participants to have a really fruitful discussion on this very actual, interesting and practically meaningful topic.

*President WADP,
Director of St. Petersburg V.M. Bekhterev
Psychoneurological Research Institute,
Chairman of the Russian Society of Psychiatrists
Professor N.G. Neznanov*

We would like to cordially invite you to our 17th World Congress of the World Association of Dynamic Psychiatry, 2014 in St. Petersburg, together with the 30th International Symposium of the German Academy of Psychoanalysis (DAP). The congress will once more take place in close collaboration with the internationally renowned Psycho-neurological Bekhterev Institute.

The claim for a holistic view of the individual is increasingly argued in psychiatry and psychotherapy, for instance with the demand that the exclusively biological and psychosomatic model of illness should be expanded in the direction of a bio-psychosocial understanding of the human being. This implicitly requires an interdisciplinary collaboration with researching efforts to provide an insight into the conditions of human development, both in health and illness, and their implementation into practice.

Such efforts, however, are linked to a number of theoretical and practical problems. One challenge is, for instance, to combine the development of integrative research models and treatment approaches with the insight of the diverse human sciences and the results of the various schools in a way, that these efforts can be effectively applied to stimulate the well-being of the person in development requiring treatment including their surrounding groups and society.

For our patients, exposed to the incessant demand of identity development through the changing social structures and the progressing globalization (this topic was extensively discussed at our 16th World Congress), we need a new kind of thinking and new ways leading to a holistic understanding. Therefore it is important to integrate the different scientific branches and disciplines as well as aspects of the different therapeutic schools with the aim to get an understanding of the individual in their healthy and interrupted development by always including surrounding groups and society; consolidating the various disciplines has become a necessity for the technique of treatment. However, Günter Ammon added his comment: 'Each attempt to integrate different methods has to be made in the service of the patient, with the aim to better understand him in order to be able to help him in a better way' (Ammon 1982).

With his concept of the Berlin School of Dynamic Psychiatry, Günter Ammon very early on not only demanded an interdisciplinary collaboration of psychiatry and psychoanalysis but also the collaboration of other scientific disciplines such as psychology, pedagogy, philosophy, neurophysiology and neuropsychology, sociology, anthropology, ethics and especially analytic group dynamics.

Since he considered the eclecticism especially within the psychiatric, psychotherapeutic and psychosomatic treatment as a great problem for the treatment of personality disorders in particular, he always intended -on the background of his multi-dimensional-integrative research and treatment approach- to integrate the newest results from the interdisciplinary research into the treatment of people.

In the course of realising this demand for 'integration', numerous misunderstandings, resistance and deficits are occurring in practice within the group-dynamic network of interdisciplinary efforts, challenging us to come together in order to search for new ways of communication and networking. There to facilitate a discourse transcending the diverse cultures, societies and scientific disciplines is the aim of this congress.

We are hoping that the encounter of scientists from various disciplines like medicine, psychiatry, psychology, psychoanalysis and psychotherapy could promote the integration of interdisciplinary research from sociology, philosophy, pedagogy, the cultural anthropology and others to facilitate such a discourse on this topic. Furthermore, it is our wish that at the St. Petersburg Congress in 2014 the sciences of mankind can contribute in a way that problems related to an interdisciplinary collaboration can be perceived, consolidated and integrated in the service of our patients.

Again we would like to thank the international organizations, the WPA, the WASP and the World Association of Psychosocial Rehabilitation for their support. We are also exceptionally thankful for the excellent cooperation of the colleagues at the Bekhterev Institute.

THE PHENOMENA OF TRANSFERENCE AND COUNTERTRANSFERENCE
IN THE PSYCHOTHERAPEUTIC PROCESS. FEATURES OF THE DYNAMICS OF THE RELATIONSHIP BETWEEN PATIENT AND THERAPIST

*Moderators: prof. Psy.D. Ilse Burbil, Dr. Margaret Shmolke, Munich, Germany
A.V. Vasilyeva, MD, St. Petersburg, Russia*

The seminar considers a brief history of the evolution of ideas about the transference and countertransference with detailed analysis of the following items

1. Transference and countertransference in the current literature and practical application of these concepts within the paradigm of dynamic psychiatry of G. Ammon
2. Dealing with transference and countertransference in the psychotherapeutic process.
